Women Who Lead

Certificate issued by NWU

The programme equips women-leaders to find their voice, be brave, remain real and have significance.

They will lead, think and behave differently to have a profound impact in their teams and organisations.

It is an applied leadership learning programme specifically designed for women who lead.

It is a challenging, sophisticated and extensive developmental experience at a full professional level in respect of leadership theory and practice.

The programme is differentiated by integrating research-based content relevant to women-leaders, the insights of women and the realities faced by women in organisations.

This is done by highlighting challenges, proposing solutions but more so, to stimulate debate and ensuring empowerment beyond stereotypes.

The following aspects are for example addressed:

- The female communication style including the use of humour.
- Reality checks in the workplace - the typical view, the difference between men and women and how to optimise the difference without negating it.
- Women's suitability for the 4th and 5th Industrial Revolutions.

The programme is quality assured by NWU Business School.
